

School of International Chinese Studies Master

Chinese Language and Literature

(Comparative Literature and World Literature)

School Overview

The School of International Chinese Studies of East China Normal University, with its strong academic foundation and diverse cultural perspective, provides a broad platform for cultivating high-quality talents with global vision and intercultural competence.

The school comprises 3 teaching and research units: the Department of TCSOL (Teaching Chinese to Speakers of Other Languages), the Department of Chinese Language, the Department of Comparative Literature. It also has 3 national-level teaching bases and 1 provincial-level research center: the State Teaching Base of Teaching Chinese as a Foreign Language, the Teaching Base for Overseas Chinese, the Institute of Global Chinese Language Teacher Education, and Research Center for Global Chinese Language Development.

The school has established a talent training system characterized by "bilingualism, biculturalism, and dual capabilities". For many years, it has exerted significant influence and played a leading role both domestically and internationally with its high-standard student training, high-quality courses, and strong teaching and research capabilities.

Program Overview

The School of International Chinese Studies at East China Normal University accepts applications from international students who are interested in pursuing a 3-year research-oriented program for a Master's degree in Literature. The program focuses on Chinese literature and culture, and we encourage comparative studies between China and other cultures as we strongly believe literary and cultural dialogues are very necessary for the world.

The Department boasts a robust, diverse faculty, all of whom have overseas academic experience and some earned their doctorate degree abroad. The faculty will be available to form strong mentorships as they teach, advise, direct student research, and help graduates embark on post-graduate opportunities. The program is supported by teachers in areas of Chinese literature, comparative literature, linguistics, translation and aesthetics.

Degree	Master's Degree in Literature	Length (year)	3
Instruction Language	English	Classes Open to International Students Only	Yes

Major Courses

Introduction to Chinese Civilization, Literary Research Methods, Introduction of Comparative Literature, Ancient Chinese Literature, Modern Chinese Literature, Translation Theories and Practices, Subjects on Contemporary World Poetry and Poetics, Chinese, etc.

After Graduation

Teaching, Academic research, Cultural exchange, Diplomatic work, Translation, Publishing etc.

*Course details are subject to the School's orientation after enrollment.

Scholarship Options

Chinese Government Scholarship

Shanghai Government Scholarship

* All scholarship students are required to take scholarship annual review.

Application Contact

Emma Li: jlli@gec.ecnu.edu.cn